The OMG! Cancer Summit For Young Adults is a major international oncology conference and social networking event for young adults affected by all cancers, as well as for their caregivers and providers.

Young adults (15-39) are an orphaned generation whose support needs are continually underserved. OMG! is the “All Star Game” for the young adult cancer movement, bringing together the nation’s foremost advocates to discuss our most relevant issues. Join the hundreds who descend upon NYC each year to get educated, organized, mobilized and united as one global community.

Diane Balma
Young Adult Survivor
Executive Director
StandUp2Cancer

Ethan Zohn
Young Adult Survivor
Founder, Grassroot Soccer
Winner, 2002 Survivor: Africa

Jonny Imerman
Founder
Imerman Angels

Brad Ludden
Founder/CEO
First Descents

Matthew Zachary
Founder/CEO
I’m Too Young For This!

Tamika Felder
Founder/CEO
Tamika & Friends

Kariol Rosenthal
Blogger/Author
“Everything Changes”

Jack Bouffard
Chief Cancer Anarchist
I’m Too Young For This!

Christine Baze
Recording Artist
The Yellow Umbrella

Adam Ostrow
Editor In Chief
Mashable.com

Rebecca Nellis
Program Director
Cancer and Careers

Laura Mosiello
Dir., Women’s Services
CancerCare

Joanna Morales
Director, Cancer Legal Resource Center

Sage Bolte
Oncology Counselor
INOVA Health Systems

Deborah Ludwig
Author, “Rebels”

Leonard Sender MD
Young Adult Oncologist
UC Irvine, CHOC

Karen Albrighton MD
Young Adult Oncologist
Cook Children’s Hospital

Teresa Woodruff PhD
Professor of OB/GYN
Northwestern

© Copyright 2010 I'm Too Young For This!, a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization | Contact Us